

Removal From Class

Riverland faculty has the authority to remove disruptive students from class or class room activities. If a student's behavior leads to repeated removal from the same class the faculty member could make a formal charge of misconduct against the student per the conduct policy.